

Discovering Truth

How to navigate between Fact & Fiction in an Overwhelming Social Media World

February 13, 2024
10:30 AM & 7:00 PM

Tickets Required

Navigating between fact and fiction, truth and lies and opinion and reality is a part of our daily struggle to be informed citizens. Social media once described as “drinking from a fire hydrant” has made our search for truth a challenge. Tim Love, with his new award-winning book, Discovering Truth provides a guide to working through this challenge. Love will be at the Museum on February 13th to delve into this topic as we move toward the November election.

Our Speaker

Timothy Love

Tim Love is Senior Vice-Chairman of Cvent.com Group, a leading global eventing and marketing services company. He retired in 2013 as CEO of the Delta Pacific, Inland, and the Pacific Office regions. Following his retirement, Tim taught an MBA elective on Strategy and Communication at Oregon's State School of Business. He was on the faculty of the US Maritime Communications College, a pro-bono initiative of the Foreign Service Institute of the US State Department.

He is a prolific writer, author and lecturer presenting several books. He has been a TEDx speaker and has numerous articles published with his insight on branding, globalization, and cultural understanding.

He has a BA Business Administration with a minor in Philosophy from Portland University. He has a Masters in Communications and was named the James Webb Young Scholar at the University of Idaho.

Get Your Tickets

The lecture will be presented at 10:30 AM and again at 7 PM at the Museum. Seating is limited and reservations are required.

Tickets are $10 each and must be ordered online in advance.

We are working to provide an online version. Stay Tuned.

Lecture Series Sponsored by:

Sebaly, Shillito + Deyer, a Legal Professional Association

Additional Support from: Miami University