Discovering Truth

Tuesday, February 13th

Navigating between fact and fiction, truth and lies and opinion and reality is a part of our daily struggle to be informed citizens. Social media once described as “drinking from a fire hydrant” has made our search for truth a challenge. Tim Love, with his new award-winning book, Discovering Truth provides a guide to working through this challenge. Love will be at the Museum on February 13th to delve into this topic as we move toward the November election.

Choose the 10:30 AM session or the evening session at 7:00PM.

Tickets @ $10 each are required

Tim Love is former Vice-Chairman of Omnicom Group, a leading global advertising and marketing services company. He retired in 2013 as CEO of the Asia Pacific, India, Middle East, and Africa regions.

Following his retirement, Tim taught an MBA elective on Branding and Communication at Oxford's Said School of Business. He was on the faculty of the US Marketing Communications College, a pro-bono initiative at the Foreign Service Institute of the US State Department.

He is a prolific writer, artist and lecturer penning several books. He has been a TEDx speaker and had numerous articles published with his insights on branding, globalization, and cultural understanding.

He holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a minor in Fine Arts from Miami University in Ohio. He has a Masters in Communications and was named James Webb young Scholar at University of Illinois. James Webb Young was founder of the War Advertising Council in 1942, the same year Voice of America was established.

The Museum Lecture Series is made possible in part by Sebaly, Shillito + Dyer, a Legal Professional Association.
